

NEW YORK SPACES

Q: "Let's meet for drinks!" a friend suggests:
Where are you going—and what are you drinking?

A: Christopher Coleman and Angel Sanchez like the Latin vibe of Nuela, the Peruvian-influenced restaurant/bar they designed in the Flatiron District, collaborating on every detail from the orange banquettes to the back-lit bottle display. "Nuela has great Mojitos and an aubergine-colored cocktail called the 'Perucho'—vodka, chicha, and Creole shrubb served straight up with an orange slice," says Coleman. "Beautiful color...."

{ NUELA, 43 W. 24TH ST; NUELANY.COM. }

Find 5 more hot spots on nyspacesmag.com.